

HATE STREET

All Mr. Tropek ever wanted was a better life for his wife and kids. So when Demeter City, the largest metropolis on Planet Altor, beckoned with promises of economic security and equality for all, Mr. Tropek packed up his family and bid farewell to his beloved Planet Xyron. Little did Tropek suspect that life as an immigrant in the teeming metropolis of Demeter City would prove to be nothing more than a promise unfulfilled - a dream that would end in a brutal nightmare.

The nightmare began the day that Burl Flak and his entourage of hateful bigots walked into Mr. Tropek's small produce shop with an artillery of venomous insults and racial slurs. The nightmare ended moments later, with the explosion of a firebomb that would turn the store into an inferno. Only Tropek's wife, Maya, would survive the holocaust, winding up in the Emergency Room of Demeter City Hospital with Officers Brogan and Haldane filing the police report.

Had Brogan realized that in that very same ER was his former flame and NYPD co-worker, Erika Brandt, he would have left immediately. He didn't.

It seems that Erika has spent the past years making quite a name for herself as an intergalactic bounty hunter. Her current mission? To capture Burl Flak and return him to Planet Danae where he is wanted for a series of hate crimes. In order to collect the bounty however, she must capture and return him to Danae before his bail is forfeit. Only one thing stands in her way. Brogan. Since Flak committed a hate crime in Demeter City, the 88th Precinct's Captain Podly wants the criminal first. Thus begins a race that pits Brogan against Erika Brandt in a frantic search for this notorious criminal.

Meanwhile, Flak and his band continue their reign of terror; this time taunting and savagely attacking two Xyronite teenagers - beating them to death. With five Xyronites murdered in two days, racial tension in Demeter City is at an extreme. To make matters worse, Flak holds an anti-Xyronite rally in which he publicly accuses the Xyronite immigrants for most of Demeter City's woes - everything from disease to poverty. Flak's solution to the problem is clear and direct: exterminate them.

Suddenly an army of police cruisers descends upon the meeting. Brogan, Haldane and crew burst through the door, but not fast enough to prevent Flak from taking a hostage - Erika - who had disguised herself as an on-looker in the crowd. With a gun at her head Flak scurries to his vehicle. A fast and furious high speed chase ensues, with Brogan and Haldane in hot pursuit. But to no avail. Flak escapes.

The race to find Flak continues at a frantic pace, taking Brogan & Haldane on a wild journey through the underbelly of Demeter City - eventually leading them to an inter-stellar cargo terminal - where Erika awaits with a shocking surprise.

LOG LINE

When a racist hatermonger, already wanted on Planet Danae, starts doing his dirty business on Altor, Lieutenant Brogan (Ted Shackelford) and Officer Haldane find that they aren't the only ones looking for him. So is Erika Brandt, an inter-stellar bounty hunter who just happens to be an old flame of Brogan's from his days on the NYPD.
